Rochelle Rainey, Environmental Health Technical Advisor, USAID Global Health Bureau

Rochelle has served as the Technical Advisor to USAID's point of use drinking water treatment programs since she started at USAID in 2005. In that capacity, she works with Abt and PSI to conduct assessments of capacity for local production of household water treatment products, formative research to determine consumer acceptability for different types of water treatment, and evaluation of programs to determine sustained adoption of the products and behaviors.
