

Colm Fay, SHOPS Private Sector Specialist, on the HANSHEP Health Enterprise Fund

Video Transcript

The main goal of the Health Enterprise Fund is to identify innovative enterprises that may not quite be ready for investment but that show promise, show opportunity, and with the right kind of capital injection through the grants that we're providing with the right kind of technical assistance, we can take those enterprises to a point where they are more ready for investment, where investors are more confident that these are sustainable, scalable enterprises, and they represent good risks.

So we've developed an online platform that will be used to facilitate the continuation of that network, which will allow people to engage in a very social way: sharing their information, their thoughts, their ideas, sharing their reflections on today, making connections with maybe people that they didn't get to meet today, or exploring relationships that they've started to develop.
